WOMEN ADVANCING TOGETHER
WORKSHOPS

With Dr. Nancy Wayne

https://nancylwayne.wordpress.com/
Getting Ahead: The Importance of Self Promotion

Nancy Wayne, PhD
Professor of Physiology
Associate Vice Chancellor for Research
University of California – Los Angeles
WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES

• Understand gender differences in willingness, comfort, and outcomes in self promoting

• Learn how and why self-promotion is critical to career advancement

• Positive problem solving:
  o Identify strategies for promoting your work without looking like a self-serving jerk o Formulate strategies for building relationships at different levels in your organization – and beyond
  o Practice your 1-2 min “elevator pitch” that promotes your accomplishments using the PAR strategy (Problem, Action, Results)
Without promotion, something terrible happens …

- P.T. Barnum
Without promotion, something terrible happens … nothing!

- P.T. Barnum
The Importance of Self Promotion

- Critical component of professional success that predicts perceptions of competence
- Contributes to hiring and promotion decisions
- Speaks directly to your strengths and skills
- Makes internal rather than external attributions for your achievements
  - Take credit for your achievements
  - Give credit where credit is due – but don’t fade into the background

Your work does not speak for itself!

Moss-Racusin and Rudman (2010)
Gender Differences in Self Promotion

WOMEN

• Socialized to be modest and not ‘toot ones own horn’
• Violates gender stereotype of being the helper, not the leader
• Self promotion is viewed negatively as being arrogant and pushy
• Fear that self promotion will backfire

MEN

• Socialized to dominate and promote own agenda
• Supports gender stereotype of being strong leader
• Self promotion is viewed positively as having confidence
• Recognize self promotion is necessary for advancement
Self Promotion – It’s a Minefield Out There!

ALICE, THE BEST WAY TO BREAK THE GLASS CEILING IS TO DO MORE NETWORKING WITH YOUR MALE CO-WORKERS.

CAN WE TALK ABOUT THIS OVER LUNCH?

WOW, YOU ARE SO INTO ME.
Example: Salary Negotiation Requires Self Promotion

- Men are 4x more likely to negotiate a starting salary than women.
- Why don’t women negotiate more or more successfully?
- Research shows that job evaluators were “disinclined to work with female managers who negotiated for higher pay because they perceived these women to be less nice and more demanding than women who let the opportunity to negotiate pass.” The same did not hold true for men who negotiated for higher pay.

Bowles, Babcock, and Lai (2007)
Example: Salary Negotiation Requires Self Promotion

Problem for women considering negotiations:

- Must weigh the benefits of negotiating (higher salary) against the very real social consequences of having negotiated (ostracized or disliked at work)
Example: Salary Negotiation Requires Self Promotion

How Can Women Escape the Compensation Negotiation Dilemma? Relational Accounts Are One Answer

Bowles and Babcock (2012), Psychol. Women Quarterly

Strategy to help women improve their negotiation and social outcomes:

- Provide The Boss with a legitimate explanation for your negotiation request while also communicating your concern for organizational relationships that supports the female stereotype and, is therefore, less threatening.
Winning strategies for negotiating salary without negative social consequences – done in combination with presenting data on your strengths, skills, and accomplishments:

• Supervisor excuse: Example: My team leader discussed compensation with me, and recommended that I be paid at the top of the salary range for my job category.
  - Need an internal champion who will support you

• Skill contribution: Example: I don’t know how typical it is for people at my level to negotiate, but I’m hopeful you’ll see my skill at negotiating as something important that I bring to the job.
Lesson Based on Research

If you are a woman ...
And you want to be successful at negotiation ...
And you want to be liked ...

Negotiate in a way that conforms to the female stereotype:

• Nice
• Helpful
• Conciliatory
• Non-aggressive, etc.
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

- Do you send your manuscripts to influential people in your field, department, and school?
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

• Do you send your manuscripts to influential people in your field, department, and school?
• Have you ever invited yourself to speak at national/international conferences and to give seminars at colleagues’ universities?
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

• Do you send your manuscripts to influential people in your field, department, and school?
• Have you ever invited yourself to speak at national/international conferences and to give seminars at colleagues’ universities?
• Do you let your chair of department know when something exciting has happened with your work/career?
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

• Do you send your manuscripts to influential people in your field, department, and school?
• Have you ever invited yourself to speak at national/international conferences and to give seminars at colleagues’ universities?
• Do you let your chair of department know when something exciting has happened with your work/career?
• Do you provide your chair of department with regular updates (e.g., annual) of the highlights of your work?
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

• Do you send your manuscripts to influential people in your field, department, and school?
• Have you ever invited yourself to speak at national/international conferences and to give seminars at colleagues’ universities?
• Do you let your chair of department know when something exciting has happened with your work/career?
• Do you provide your chair of department with regular updates (e.g., annual) of the highlights of your work?
• Are you in contact with the Program Officer at your funding agencies?
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

• Do you send your manuscripts to influential people in your field, department, and school?
• Have you ever invited yourself to speak at national/international conferences and to give seminars at colleagues’ universities?
• Do you let your chair of department know when something exciting has happened with your work/career?
• Do you provide your chair of department with regular updates (e.g., annual) of the highlights of your work?
• Are you in contact with the Program Officer at your funding agencies?
• Have you ever contacted campus Media Relations about work that has been accepted for publication, that you think will be of broad interest to the Lehigh community and beyond?
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

• Do you send your manuscripts to influential people in your field, department, and school?
• Have you ever invited yourself to speak at national/international conferences and to give seminars at colleagues’ universities?
• Do you let your chair of department know when something exciting has happened with your work/career?
• Do you provide your chair of department with regular updates (e.g., annual) of the highlights of your work?
• Are you in contact with the Program Officer at your funding agencies?
• Have you ever contacted campus Media Relations about work that has been accepted for publication, that you think will be of broad interest to the Lehigh community and beyond?
• Do you volunteer for visible and influential service assignments in your department, school, campus, professional societies?
DO YOU PROMOTE YOURSELF AND YOUR WORK?

Table Exercise #1: Sharing self promotion experiences

A. Besides publishing and presenting at conferences, what have you done in the past to promote your work and yourself?

B. Discuss one thing you will do in the coming week to promote your work and yourself – on campus or to your off-campus research community?
Problem-Action-Results

The Scene:
You are walking across campus and you run into your Chair/Dean/Vice President for Research/etc. She says, “How’s it going?”

How do you respond?
Problem-Action-Results

The Scene:
You are walking across campus and you run into your Chair/Dean/Vice President for Research/etc. She says, “How’s it going?”

Response:
Don’t just say, “Good”.
Follow with a brief PAR statement relevant to the situation.
Problem-Action-Results

_The Scene:_
You are walking across campus and you run into your Chair/Dean/Vice President for Research/etc. She says, “How’s it going?”

_Example PAR Response:_
• Very good – I’ve been working hard to improve the culture of lab safety on our campus.
Problem-Action-Results

The Scene:
You are walking across campus and you run into your Chair/Dean/Vice President for Research/etc. She says, “How’s it going?”

Example PAR Response:
- Very good – I’ve been working hard to improve the culture of lab safety on our campus.
- Problem: As you are probably aware, an antagonistic relationship developed between the Office of Environment, Health & Safety and our researchers.
Problem-Action-Results

The Scene: You are walking across campus and you run into your Chair/Dean/Vice President for Research/etc. She says, “How’s it going?”

Example PAR Response:
• Very good – I’ve been working hard to improve the culture of lab safety on our campus.
• Problem: As you are probably aware, an antagonistic relationship developed between the Office of Environment, Health & Safety and our researchers.
• Action: I am leading an effort in partnership with the new Director of EH&S to put practices in place that are collegial and collaborative rather than adversarial, including a non-punitive consultation program for PIs and lab supervisors.
Problem-Action-Results

_The Scene:_
You are walking across campus and you run into your Chair/Dean/Vice President for Research/etc. She says, “How’s it going?”

_Example PAR Response:_
• Very good – I’ve been working hard to improve the culture of lab safety on our campus.
• Problem: As you are probably aware, an antagonistic relationship developed between the Office of Environment, Health & Safety and our researchers.
• Action: I am leading an effort in partnership with the new Director of EH&S to put practices in place that are collegial and collaborative rather than adversarial, including a non-punitive consultation program for PIs and lab supervisors.
• Results: Feedback from faculty show that interactions with EH&S staff, especially during lab inspections, has improved significantly.
Problem-Action-Results

Table Exercise #2: Construct your own PAR statement:

Use a recent achievement.

- Problem: What needed solving?
- Action: What did you (and your team) do to address or solve the problem?
- Results: What was the outcome?

Write it out – be concise and make sure you SHINE gracefully by acknowledging the shared efforts of others!

Pitch it to each other in pairs – provide constructive feedback.